Google Analytics

For the purpose of website analytics, Google Analytics automatically collects and stores data (IP address, time of visit, device and browser information as well as information on your use of our website), from which usage profiles are created using pseudonyms. Cookies can be used for this purpose. Your IP address will not be merged with other data from Google. The data processing is based on a data processing agreement with Google.

We also use the extension function of Google Analytics, Google Optimize, to create and run tests.

For web analytics purposes, the extension function of Google Analytics, Google Signals, enables so-called "cross-device tracking". If your internet-enabled devices are linked to your Google account and you have activated the “personalized advertising” setting in your Google account, Google can generate reports on your usage behavior (in particular cross-device user numbers), even if you change your device. We do not process personal data in this respect; we only receive statistics based on Google Signals.

For website analysis and event tracking, we use Google Ads Conversion Tracking to measure your subsequent usage behavior when you arrive on our website via a Google Ads ad. For this purpose, cookies may be used and data (IP address, time of visit, device and browser information as well as information on your use of our website based on events specified by us, such as a visit to a website or newsletter registration) may be collected, from which usage profiles are created using pseudonyms.

Meta and Facebook

This website uses social plugins from the social network Facebook, which is operated by Facebook, Inc., 1601 S. California Ave, Palo Alto, CA 94304, USA (“Facebook”). The plugins are marked with a Facebook logo or the supplement “social plugin from Facebook” or “Facebook social plugin”. You can find an overview of the Facebook plugins and what they look like here developers.facebook.com/docs/plugins.

If you access a page of our website that has such a plugin, your browser establishes a direct connection with Facebook’s servers. The contents of the plugin are transmitted directly to your browser from Google and integrated into the website by them.

By integrating the plugins, Facebook receives the information that your browser has accessed the corresponding page on our website even if you don't have a Facebook account or aren't currently logged into Facebook. This information (including your IP address) is transmitted by your browser directly to a Facebook server in the USA and saved there.

If you are logged in to Facebook, Facebook can directly associate the visit to our website with your Facebook account. If you interact with the plugins by, for instance, pushing a "Like" button or entering a comment, the corresponding information will be transmitted directly by your browser to a Facebook server and stored there. The information is also published on Facebook and displayed to your Facebook friends.

Facebook can use this information for advertising purposes, market research and the needs-based design of the Facebook pages. To this end, Facebook creates usage, interest and relationship profiles, e.g. to analyze your use of our website with respect to the advertisements you are shown on Facebook, inform other Facebook users of your activities on our website and provide additional services related to the use of Facebook.

If you don't want Facebook to directly associate data collected via our website with your Facebook account, you have to log out of Facebook before visiting our website.

The purpose and scope of the data collection and the further processing and use of the data by Facebook and your rights and settings options in this regard for protecting your privacy can be found in Facebook's data protection information from Facebook: www.facebook.com/policy.php.

Social Plugins by Meta, including Facebook and Instagram

Social buttons by social networks are used on our website. These are only integrated into the page as HTML links, so that no connection to the servers of the respective provider is established when our website is accessed. If you click on one of the buttons, the website of the respective social network will open in a new window of your browser. There you can click e.g. the Like or Share button.

Our Online Presence on Facebook and Instagram

If you have given your consent to the respective social media provider, when you visit our online presence on the social media mentioned above, your data will be automatically collected and stored for market research and advertising purposes, from which user profiles are created using pseudonyms. These can be used, for example, to place advertisements within and outside the platforms that presumably correspond to your interests. Cookies are usually used for this purpose. For detailed information on the processing and use of data by the respective social media provider, as well as a contact option and your rights and settings options for the protection of your privacy, please refer to the provider's privacy policies linked below. Should you still require assistance in this regard, please contact us.

ADMTs are technologies that process personal information and use computation to execute a decision and either replace or substantially replace human decision-making, resulting in decisions made without human involvement. Decisions are significant when they result in the provision or denial of financial or lending services, housing, education enrollment or opportunities, employment or independent contracting opportunities or compensation, or healthcare services. Advertising is not a significant decision.

We do not currently use ADMT to make significant decisions about consumers, so we do not provide ADMT access, opt-out, or appeal rights.

Any disclosures we provide will only cover the 12-month period preceding the Verifiable Consumer Request's receipt. The response we provide will also explain the reasons we cannot comply with a request, if applicable.

We do not charge a fee to process or respond to Verifiable Consumer Requests, unless it is excessive, repetitive, or manifestly unfounded. If we determine that the request warrants a fee, we will tell you why we made that decision and provide you with a cost estimate before completing your request.
